September 2009

Dear Prospective Festival Teacher:

The 2010 National High School Dance Festival will be hosted by the New World School of the Arts in Miami, March 18-21, 2010. There are so many of you who have already inquired about the festival and your willingness to teach, and we thank you for that. If you are an independent teacher, or on the faculty of a high school, or a member of an outstanding summer program, private institution, or university program, and have not already corresponded, please consider volunteering as a Festival Teacher.

As students prepare for careers in the dance world, the impact of this type of Festival experience cannot be overemphasized.

Even if your school will not be involved in recruitment, we encourage your participation as a Festival Teacher. For further information, please go to the www.nhsdf.org. Classes will be 75-90 minutes in length. Classes on Friday and Saturday will be offered from 8am until 4:30 pm. The exact schedule will be available at a later date. Sunday classes are tentatively scheduled from 9:30 – 11:00am. Feel free to share this invitation with others whom you consider to be Master teachers.

Please understand that we may not be able to involve all who are interested, but your response is very much appreciated. Please submit (fax or Email) your Faculty Volunteer Interest Form no later than November 16, 2009.

Final decisions on the Teaching Faculty will be made by the Festival Faculty Committee. You will be contacted regarding selections in early November.

Thank you, again, for your interest in this exciting national arts event!

Most sincerely,
Phyllis Penney, Daniel Lewis, Kathryn Kearns, and the NHSDF Faculty Committee
